From Mr. Hunt.

July 29, 1915.
My Dear Mr. Ake—I would like to tell the readers of the REGISTER how God built one of the most beautiful roads in Southern Missouri.
Now, if we do not have a right conception of God we will not understand how he built this road from Hunt's farm to Centerville. A great many people have a wrong conception of God. They think God dwells in a City somewhere above us and rules like a great King. They do not realize that He dwells on this earth and in us and all through the infinite universe.

I have to think of God, the Creator of the world and the countless worlds above and around this planet. I have to think of God, the Father, as He manifested Himself in the life and character of Jesus Christ.

At this time we wish to call your attention how, ages ago, He caused a great uplift in this Ozark region, a long time before all of the great ranges of mountains in America, Europe, Asia and Africa were formed.
In forming the Ozark Mountains He mixed clay and gravel in the right portion and formed the high and narrow dividing ridges, which would have cost many times more than the great wall in Europe if men had undertaken to grade this road. For ages and ages, these ridges were like the hidden forces of the earth waiting for men to discover their great value. What a wonderful and great advancement in the use of the mysterious force of gravitation in transforming it in to another force called electricity, which is sure a blessing to man in saving time and wasted energy.

God put it into the hearts of a few men to blow out the trees and pick up the rocks from these ridges and grade a few small hills, at a cost of less than one hundred dollars per mile. What is the result? A first class road for all purposes. It is a fact there is not a ten mile road in the State of Missouri that is as practical for a semi-rail trail as this part of the Glover and Centerville road.

From this trail you may see the great and beautiful ranges of hills in Iron, Reynolds and Wayne Counties. Can any man say that God did not make this grand and picturesque scenery, and this beautiful shaded road high upon the hills to Centerville?

Yesterday I drove my old horses with a party of city people, over the trail and back home by the river road.
On the way we stopped to see the wonderful and useful things a little hydraulic ram was doing with the force of gravitation derived from a tank at the top of the house; from that it was piped all over the dwelling.
It furnishes the water to irrigate his garden and lawn. The same force of gravitation was running a little wheel which runs the washing machine and does the churning without one cent of cost. I looked upon the porch of this beautiful home and saw the happy mother with a magazine in hand, watching her gleeful child as she rolled and tumbled on the green grass. We heard the sound of the barrel churn as it goes splashing around. I drive on but a short distance. I see an elderly lady who was the companion of my wife in her girlhood days. She sits by a spring, just like the one mentioned above. She is churning with the old-fashioned churn. I hear the splash of the cream as she moves the dash up and down. I drive on.
My thoughts would continuously return to the two scenes, as my horses moved slowly over the hot sand; but as we forded the river seven times in our nine-mile drive home, the heat and the hard trails gave me much time to think. My thoughts led me to realize that I, with many others, was walking in the ruts of habit, and out-of-date custom, as the lady with the old-fashioned churn. I thought of the hours and days and months of drudgery and wasted energy. Of the time that might be saved which can be transformed into money to bring a comfort to ourselves and others, if we only could get out of the ruts of custom and habit. We thought of the many times it was impossible for anyone to ford the river after a heavy rain. How many days were wasted in waiting for the water to fall. Seven days have the good people of Centerville, the County Seat of Reynolds County, in the past seven months failed to get their mail on account of high water, while an old man who lives on the same side of the Black River failed but once, and that was caused by our mail leaving I. M. R. R. at a town on the east side of Big Creek.
In my endeavor to help the Govern-nor and all good road men by working and writing for good roads, it is not my intention to be personal and hurt the feelings of any one; but the custom and habit of working roads that are in creek and river bottoms, or locating them there, is as primitive and costly as it is to churn and wash our clothes by hand, when the laws of nature can be harnessed up and take many of the burdens of life from us and add much to the wealth of our beautiful Ozark country.

I wish to make an appeal to the people along the Ironton, Hogan and Glover roads. Will you help us in calling the attention of as many as possible to this one bad link of road from Arcadia to Glover? It is really the only rough 10 miles of road between Ironton and Centerville, Elling-ton and Van Buren. $200 expended intelligently in throwing and blasting out rocks, filling up one little road, and making the road wider here and there, would suffice. Let us finish this short piece of road; then automobiles will advertise our beautiful country in Iron, Reynolds and other counties. At last Black River is bridged—the only river and creek of any size between St. Louis and Van Buren that remained unbridged.

F. T. HUNT.

The Navy Combine.

After the paragraph providing for the purchase of the armor plate I offered the following amendment: Provided, That the Secretary of the Navy shall not consider any bid for the supplying of the armor or armor-ment herein provided for unless such bid is accompanied by a sworn list of the stockholders and bondholders of the corporation submitting such bid, such list of stockholders and bondholders to be taken from the books of said corporation as of date of July 1, 1914; And it is further provided, That such
shall be transmitted to Congress in a separate report to the Secretary of the Navy.

This amendment went to its grave on a point of order made by the chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee.
My purpose in offering the amendment was to ascertain the names of the shareholders of the war trust, the names of the men who profit from the manufacture of war munitions by private construction. Those who are advocating the taking of profit out of war and preparation for war by having all Army and Navy equipment manufactured in Government plants can make a more intelligent fight if they know exactly whom they are fighting.
Until the identity of the stockholders of the war trust can be established, it might, perhaps, even though unpleasant, be logical to assume that those patriots who cry out in anguish every time the Government manufacture of war munitions is mentioned have been struck in the region of the pocketbook, an exceedingly tender part of the anatomy.

Comparisons are odious, but in 1909 the Investors' Review of London examined the stockholders' list of several British war-trafficking companies and it found in the list of one company alone (Armstrong, Whitworth) the names of:
Sixty noblemen, their wives, sons or daughters.
Fifteen baronets.
Twenty knights.
Eight members of Parliament.
Twenty military and navy officers.
Eight journalists.

Later lists revealed a marked connection between stock holding in armor and munition companies and active membership of "purely patriotic" organizations, such as the British Navy League.
In this country it is impossible to obtain lists of the stockholders in the war-trading concerns. The Stanley Steel Investigating committee was unable to obtain them, and when I applied to our Federal Bureau of Corruption I found it did not possess them, and that there was some question as to whether the Bureau had the authority to obtain them.
Why not permit the public to know the identity of the patriots behind the War Trust?
